

I am not in support of the FCC implementing any proposal that would lessen the protection afforded me by the Indiana Telephone Privacy law currently in place. I signed up with the no call list from the beginning, and the number calls I received has reduced tremendously. I have gone from approximately 7-8 calls per week to almost 0 per month. Occasionally, I receive a call from someone wanting to change my long distance service. Otherwise, I do not receive these calls. I believe it is my right to not be invaded in my home by solicitors. I pay to have a non-published number and only give my number to those I want to call me. Any other measure would take that control and right from me. And I do not, therefore support it.

Thank you
